

*Since 1753, documenting our churches,
our families, our communities*

The Moravian Archives is the official repository for records of the Moravian Church in America, Southern Province. Its records begin with the establishment of the first southern Moravian settlement in 1753 at Bethabara, N.C. (now part of Winston-Salem), and continue until the present day. While its main function is to serve the Church in the collecting, cataloging and safekeeping of those materials, the Archives also makes many of its holdings available for research by genealogists, academics, cultural institutions and the general public.

Moravians kept detailed records in order to maintain ties with Church leadership in both Bethlehem, Pa., and Herrnhut, Germany. But in diaries of church and daily life, reports from missionary work with the Cherokees, and life stories of a community of church members, Moravians recorded their living witness to the surrounding world. The Archives' $300,000 annual budget is funded in nearly-equal shares by the churches of the Southern Province, the Salem Congregation and contributions of individual donors.

*Since 1753, documenting our churches,
our families, our communities*

The Moravian Archives is the official repository for records of the Moravian Church in America, Southern Province. Its records begin with the establishment of the first southern Moravian settlement in 1753 at Bethabara, N.C. (now part of Winston-Salem), and continue until the present day. While its main function is to serve the Church in the collecting, cataloging, and safekeeping of those materials, the Archives also makes many of its holdings available for research by genealogists, academics, cultural institutions, and the general public.

Moravians kept detailed records in order to maintain ties with Church leadership in both Bethlehem, Pa., and Herrnhut, Germany. But in diaries of church and daily life, reports from missionary work with the Cherokees, and life stories of a community of church members, Moravians recorded their living witness to the surrounding world. The Archives' $300,000 annual budget is funded in nearly-equal shares by the churches of the Southern Province, the Salem Congregation and contributions of individual donors.

Our Moravian Archives hosts a full-service research library with reading room resources in genealogy and translations of selected German-language church records; creates publications describing the Moravian Church experience in the Southern Province; and hosts a website and Facebook page with links to many in-house resources on church history. Ongoing programming includes Family History Docent training for aiding guests searching their family stories; Lunchtime Lectures on second Thursdays on topics of interest; and traveling exhibits on topics gathered from our materials. Copies of memoirs, and some images and other materials may be made for a fee with permission restrictions. Visitors are encouraged to make appointments with staff before coming by for research and required to do so after noon. The Archives is closed to the public on Fridays.

The Archives welcomes ongoing prayers and support. Financial gifts can be directed to: C. Daniel Crews Friends Fund (annual budget support); Special Projects Fund for Technology (computers and software purchase); Book Fund (for collection maintenance and the creation of new publications); or the Endowment Fund (long-term reserve support). The Archives depends on volunteer help for the creation of many of the guides to its materials and the processing of new items. They welcome the contribution of important family records and photographs to continue telling the Moravian story here. Anyone with interest should ask to be added to their monthly email list for news of upcoming events.

Moravian Archives

457 S. Church Street, Winston-Salem, NC 27101

336-722-1742 www.moravianarchives.org moravianarchives@mcsp.org

Archives Commission: John Larson, Chair, Home Moravian Church; Toni Bigham, New Philadelphia Moravian Church; Peggy Carter, Fries Memorial Moravian Church; Christine Ebert, Ardmore Moravian Church; Heather Fearnbach, Home Moravian Church; Michael Gwyn, Ardmore Moravian Church; Paul Knouse, Home Moravian Church; Barry Miller, Konnoak Hills Moravian Church; Kirk Sanders, Home Moravian Church; Rev. Scott Venable, Fairview Moravian Church. Archives Staff: J. Eric Elliott, Archivist; Nicole Crabbe, Assistant Archivist

Our Moravian Archives hosts a full-service research library with reading room resources in genealogy and translations of selected German-language church records; creates publications describing the Moravian Church experience in the Southern Province; and hosts a website and Facebook page with links to many in-house resources on church history. Ongoing programming includes Family History Docent training for aiding guests searching their family stories; Lunchtime Lectures on second Thursdays on topics of interest; and traveling exhibits on topics gathered from our materials. Copies of memoirs, and some images and other materials may be made for a fee with permission restrictions. Visitors are encouraged to make appointments with staff before coming by for research and required to do so after noon. The Archives is closed to the public on Fridays.

The Archives welcomes ongoing prayers and support. Financial gifts can be directed to: C. Daniel Crews Friends Fund (annual budget support); Special Projects Fund for Technology (computers and software purchase); Book Fund (for collection maintenance and the creation of new publications); or the Endowment Fund (long-term reserve support). The Archives depends on volunteer help for the creation of many of the guides to its materials and the processing of new items. They welcome the contribution of important family records and photographs to continue telling the Moravian story here. Anyone with interest should ask to be added to their monthly email list for news of upcoming events.

Moravian Archives

457 S. Church Street, Winston-Salem, NC 27101

336-722-1742 www.moravianarchives.org moravianarchives@mcsp.org

Archives Commission: John Larson, Chair, Home Moravian Church; Toni Bigham, New Philadelphia Moravian Church; Peggy Carter, Fries Memorial Moravian Church; Christine Ebert, Ardmore Moravian Church; Heather Fearnbach, Home Moravian Church; Michael Gwyn, Ardmore Moravian Church; Paul Knouse, Home Moravian Church; Barry Miller, Konnoak Hills Moravian Church; Kirk Sanders, Home Moravian Church; Rev. Scott Venable, Fairview Moravian Church. Archives Staff: J. Eric Elliott, Archivist; Nicole Crabbe, Assistant Archivist